Descriptive report to accompany Topographic Sheet C.

Method of Work:

Traverse line was run with plane table from the mouth of the Little Susitna River eastward for six and a quarter miles along the ordinary high water mark to join shore line already surveyed.

General:

At low water mud flats are bare for about two miles off shore. Back of the high water line the ground is a stiff mud with clumps of grass scattered over it. Near the tree line the ground is marshy, small ponds being filled and drained through sloughs by the tides. The tree line runs along a bluff, apparently at an even distance of about a mile and a half from the high water mark. Further on it turns, running out to high water line at Pt. McKenzie. The area between the tree and the high water lines is covered at storm tides which have left drift wood scattered over the surface. The flats are cut by numerous small sloughs which are dry at low tide.

No list of plane table positions is furnished for the reason that no objects of a permanent nature that could be recovered in future years exist along this stretch of shore line.
