DESCRIPTIVE REPORT.

Sheet No. 3543

LOCALITY:

191

CHIEF OF PARTY:
Coast and Geodetic Survey,

E. L. Jones, Superintendent,

A Descriptive Report to Accompany Topographic Sheet 3543.

West Coast of Prince of Wales Island,

S. E. Alaska.

August - September 1915.

By Party on Steamer "GEDNEY"

F. H. Hardy, Assistant,
Chief of Party.

Instructions dated March 28, 1915.

Limits, Scale, Method.

Topographic Sheet "C" includes the southern shore of the island north of Baker Island, from Portillo Channel to the southwest point of the island; the south shore of Port Real Marina, connecting with sheet "A" on the eastern end, and extending to the entrance to "Sea Otter Harbor; also the southeast shore of Cone Island from the easterly point to the southwest point of the island.

The Scale is 1:20,000.

The work was done by a party from the Steamer "GEDNEY" with G. C. Mattison, Assistant, in charge. Launch 27 with skiff and 5 men comprised the party. There were a few days on which only 3 men and motor dinghy were used.

General Description.

The coast line and country is very irregular, and densely covered, with spruce trees, except on the top of some of the higher peaks which are bare, or have a growth of small deciduous trees.

Description of the Shore.

The northeast shore of Ignace Island is mostly rocky, while the northwest shore is one stretch of gravel beach. The Santa Rita Islands is a group of low irregular shaped islands, with rocky shores predominating. The north shore of Baker Island is very irregular, and generally rocky, with numerous small bights, at the head of which are usually either sand or pebble beaches. The north shore of Portillo Channel is more regular than the south shore, the character being shown on the sheet. Just north of the Santa Rita Islands is a small wooded island which is very prominent either from Port Real Marina or from the strait between San Fernando and San Juan Bautista Islands.

Respectfully submitted,

G. C. Mattson
Assistant, C. & G. Survey,

Forwarded,

Assistant, C. & G. Survey,
Commanding Stmr. "GEDNEY"
