State: California

Locality: Sacramento River Valley
Deadhorse Island to Western Pacific Railroad

1934

Chief of Party:
E. G. Erskine

(Corrections)

U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE: 1934
Deadhorse Island to Western Pacific Railroad, Sacramento River Valley, California.

This sheet contains corrections (shown in red) to the original survey of this area.

Compilation: The hydrographic survey furnished overhead cable and bridge clearances. The clearance of the overhead cable across Beaver Slough was changed from the U. S. Engineer's value of 110FT to L. P. Raynor's observed value of 105FT at M.H.W. The east span of the New Hope Drawbridge as observed by L. P. Raynor has an effective clearance of 56 feet although the horizontal clearance of that span was measured as 51 feet.

The hydrographic survey also called attention to the fact that Tyler Island does not fall within the limits of this sheet.

Plane table revision sheet No. 12a, consisting of a shoreline revision to that part of the Mokelumne River on the eastern part of the sheet, was applied by D. W. Benson and checked by Frank G. Erskine. This revision also contained a slight change to the Western Pacific R.R. and to the roads around Thornton.

Several signals used in the hydrography were located during this plane table revision which is filed in the Air Photo Sections as letter No. 5 and sheet No. 12a.

Blueprint No. 25708 supplied several additional geographic names.

November 5, 1934.

Respectfully submitted,

Frank G. Erskine.
NAMEs: There are no charts covering the area of this project except chart 5534 at the junction of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers. The following maps files as Blueprints were furnished by the field party with corrections made from field examination to show the names in local use and have been used in making the corrections to compilations on this project.
